member of their sister charity

The Friends of the TT Riders Association

Today, the TT Riders' Association is a strong, viable and well-established charity.

This association of men and women who have started in a TT race now offers a unique privilege to friends and admirers who, while never having raced over the world's most challenging course, have nevertheless contributed to the TT's success by supporting the races in many different ways.

They might have made a special contribution to a TTRA member's individual race activity, or to the success of the races themselves by lending their support year after year.

The list of potential members of the Friends of the TT Rider's Association is much larger than that of those individuals whose bravery and commitment have earned them the right to belong to the TTRA itself.

This is because, for every rider who has faced the starter in the world's greatest road races, there are many more in the teams that make a TT race possible.

The purpose of the friends is to add to the effectiveness charitable funding of the TTRA itself, so as with that organisation, commitment is a vital precondition for life membership.

The Friends will be invited as guests to the TTRA's race week headquarters at the 38th Milestone behind the Douglas grandstand, and the TTRA's annual luncheon that takes place in October, each offering a great opportunity to meet the stars.
